There are two main intakes in the USA – Fall and Spring.

The Fall Intake starts in August, and it has the most number of courses available. Fall Intake in USA is the most favorite among international students.

The Spring (or Winter) Intake starts in January, and the students who might have missed the fall intake in USA can choose to study in Winter Intake, though not every course that is available in fall would be available in winter.

There is a Summer Intake (May), too, however, it has a very limited number of courses on offer.
